► FREEDOM OF PUBLIC TRANSPORT

We keep on going!

I am proud to announce our fifth edition of Timetables in the Alps, created in cooperation with the Permanent Secretariat of the Alpine Convention, the Alpine Association of Slovenia, the Triglav National Park and the local tourist organizations Bled, Bohinj, Bovec, Kamnik, Kranjska gora, Radovljica, Solčavsko and Tolmin. Even if it sometimes seems like nothing is changing in the public transport, the four line opening sentence of this editorial proves, that in spite of all, there is more and more interest for the public transport. We are happy to have seen the opening of some new lines and we welcome the raise of consciousness among people – we, as society, seem to have advanced in understanding the importance of sustainable mobility for our health and environment. One of CIPRA Slovenia's key tasks is to change the mobility habits of the population. This is, without a doubt, one of the most difficult and tasks that one can set for their life. It might take some time to reach this goal, but it is crucial to start now. We have come to the point, where cars do not provide anymore the services they were invented and developed for; a trip by car is not always the fastest way to get from point A to point B. It is true that cars are constantly changing in terms of shapes and colours, but from the nature's point of view, they remain nothing but a heap of metal that is out of place. Having a car is also getting less economical. Last but not the least, the harmful exhausts and the noise from traffic are everything but beneficial to our health.

This year, the public transport timetables for 12 lines have been added to the booklet and the 4.040 copies in english language have been printed. In parallel with the public transport, new forms of sustainable mobility are appearing slowly but surely. They are bike rentals (for electric and classic bikes), car sharing, car pooling and P+R: park and ride systems. We hope that all these measures will be a part of our Timetables in the year 2014!
